I. INTRODUCTION TO THE COMMISSION

The Rhode Island Ethics Commission (“Commission”) is a constitutionally mandated body authorized to adopt, administer, and enforce the State of Rhode Island’s Code of Ethics in Government (“Code” or “Code of Ethics”). R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8. The Code of Ethics is embodied in Rhode Island General Laws §§ 36-14-4 to -7 and Commission Regulations 36-14-5001 to -7004. The Code sets forth standards of conduct for all of Rhode Island’s public officials and employees.

The Commission educates and advises public officials and employees about the standards of conduct set forth in the Code of Ethics. The education program offers seminars and workshops, and it disseminates publications about the Code of Ethics and Commission procedures. Advisory opinions respond to specific questions about the Code posed by public officials and employees facing potential conflicts of interest.

The Commission facilitates transparency in government through its administration of the filing of annual financial disclosure statements. This is an ongoing process in which a database of required filers is maintained and updated by Commission staff. Once filed, financial disclosure statements are public and are often requested pursuant to the Access to Public Records Act.

The Commission enforces the Code of Ethics through a combination of executive session investigative proceedings, open hearings, and public adjudications. Enforcement powers include civil penalties and, in some instances, the power to remove an official from office.

All of the Commission’s educational publications, advisory opinions, complaints, and final dispositions are available to the public as public records. Investigative reports, related pleadings, and Commission orders become public at specific junctures in the enforcement process.

HISTORY

In 1976, the Rhode Island General Assembly enacted the State’s first Code of Ethics and created the Conflict of Interest Commission. That Code governed the activities of state and municipal elected and appointed officials and required all such officials to meet newly imposed financial disclosure requirements.

In November of 1986, Rhode Island voters adopted a constitutional amendment mandating that the General Assembly “establish an independent non-partisan ethics commission” R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8. In 1987, the General Assembly replaced the Conflict of Interest Commission with a fifteen (15) member Ethics Commission. In 1992, the General Assembly reduced the size of the Ethics Commission to its current nine (9) members.

The Rhode Island Constitution empowers the Ethics Commission to adopt and enforce a Code of Ethics, to investigate violations of the Code, and to impose penalties, including removal from office. R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8. Legislation enacted by the General Assembly also grants the Ethics Commission the power to issue advisory opinions to public officials and employees and to offer educational programs. R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 36-14-10 & -11. The process by which Commissioners are appointed, quorum requirements, and the administrative powers of the Commission are governed by R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 36-14-8 & -9.

POWERS

The fundamental powers of the Ethics Commission are to:

- Adopt and amend a Code of Ethics.
- Advise public officials and employees about the Code of Ethics through the issuance of advisory opinions, as requested.
- Enforce the Code of Ethics.
- Administer and enforce financial disclosure requirements.
- Maintain financial disclosure records.
- Educate public officials, government employees, and citizens.

RHODE ISLAND CODE OF ETHICS IN GOVERNMENT

The Rhode Island Constitution sets forth an expectation that public officials and employees “adhere to the highest standards of ethical conduct, respect the public trust and the rights of all persons, be open, accountable and responsive, avoid the appearance of impropriety and not use their position for private gain or advantage.”¹ The Constitution provides that all Rhode Island elected and appointed officials and employees of state and local government, of boards, commissions and agencies are subject to the Code of Ethics.²

² R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8.

The Code of Ethics regulates conflicts of interest, which occur when a public official's public duties intersect with his or her private interests. Public officials and employees may not have financial interests that are in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of their public duties.³ Conflicts of interest include the financial interests of the public official or employee as well as those of his or her family, private employers, business associates, or any business the official or employee may represent.⁴ When conflicts of interest arise, public officials and employees are required to disclose the nature of the conflict.⁵ They are further required to recuse themselves from taking any official government action or participating in deliberations concerning a matter in which they have a conflict of interest.⁶

The Code of Ethics consists of statutory provisions enacted by the General Assembly and regulations adopted by the Commission.⁷ Commission procedures are also set forth in the statutes and Commission regulations.⁸ Complete copies of the Code are available at the Commission office and may be viewed on the Commission's website at <http://www.ethics.ri.gov>.

Furthermore, the Ethics Commission has regulatory authority relating to certain financial disclosure requirements for gambling interests,⁹ and has enforcement authority relating to goods or services provided to public officials and employees by state vendors.¹⁰ The Ethics Commission also works with the Board of Governors for Higher Education in the review of applications for exceptions to the Code made by state university inventors and researchers.¹¹

The Commission's expenditures for FY2015 totaled $1,579,038. This reflects an increase of $37,300 from FY2014.

II. ADVISORY OPINIONS

Rhode Island General Laws § 36-14-11 authorizes the Ethics Commission to issue advisory opinions to public officials and employees, both at the state and municipal levels. Any public official or employee may request or petition that the Commission interpret the Code of Ethics and recommend specific actions in keeping with the requirements of the Code. Advisory opinions require an affirmative vote of five (5) of the nine (9) members of the Commission. Requests for advisory opinions must be made in writing and include the petitioner's position, the jurisdiction and powers of the department, agency, or public body on or for which he or she serves, and the nature of the potential conflict or other inquiry. Advisory opinions are issued in open session and are public records. Copies of advisory opinions are available at the Commission's offices and advisory opinions issued since 1995 can be found on the Commission's website.

Advisory Opinion Process Flowchart
The Commission receives a request for an advisory opinion.
Does the request meet all of the following criteria:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Is it requested by the person affected or a representative thereof? • Does it concern prospective conduct? • Is it within the Commission's jurisdiction?
YES: An acknowledgement letter will be sent to the petitioner.	NO: A rejection letter will be sent to the petitioner.
NEXT: A staff attorney will draft a recommendation and, after review, the Executive Director will send it to the petitioner.
The Commission reviews the draft at an open meeting and votes to approve or reject the draft. Approval requires 5 affirmative votes.
IF APPROVED: An advisory opinion is issued as a public record and a copy is sent to the petitioner.	IF REJECTED: No advisory opinion issues. The petitioner is so notified.

ADVISORY OPINION REQUESTS IN FY2015

The Commission received sixty-four (64) requests for advisory opinions in FY2015. Each request is assigned to a staff attorney, who contacts the petitioner to discuss the facts and often requests further information, conducts legal research, meets with the petitioner as necessary, and provides informal guidance. The staff attorney will ascertain whether the Commission has jurisdiction and will explain advisory opinion procedures to the petitioner. In FY2015, after an initial review, twenty-one (21) advisory opinion requests were withdrawn for some of the following reasons: the conduct was most likely prohibited and the petitioner decided to recuse rather than seek the opinion; the Commission lacked jurisdiction over members of the general assembly in matters relating to core legislative activities; the opinion was not requested by the person who had the potential conflict; the request was based on a set of hypothetical facts; or the petitioner's employer prohibited the proposed private employment and the request was moot.

Thirty-nine (39) advisory opinions were issued in FY2015: one (1) was issued to a state employee; three (3) were issued to state appointed officials; one (1) was issued to a state elected official; thirteen (13) were issued to municipal appointed officials; two (2) were issued to municipal employees; and nineteen (19) were issued to municipal elected officials.

The advisory opinions issued in FY2015 encompassed a variety of issues, including: business associates, nepotism, recusal, financial interests, and property interests; potential conflicts arising when an official or employee also has private employment; potential conflicts arising when a family member is also employed in the public sector; serving in dual public roles; the post-employment revolving door provision; and whether the hardship or class exceptions apply, allowing a public official to participate in a matter which would otherwise constitute a conflict of interest.

ADVISORY OPINION KEYWORD INDEX

Advisory opinions issued in FY2015 addressed a variety of keyword topics. Because requests often raise multiple issues, the number of topics addressed in advisory opinions exceeds the total number of advisory opinions issued.

III. EDUCATION

The statutory provisions of the Rhode Island Code of Ethics authorize the Ethics Commission to establish an education program. R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 36-14-9(a)(14) & -10. The program's purpose is to educate public officials, public employees, and all Rhode Island citizens regarding the Code of Ethics and Commission procedures. The program includes seminars and workshops, as well as the production and dissemination of handouts and other publications explaining the Code of Ethics.

The Commission employs an Education Coordinator to conduct outreach and training for public officials and employees at all levels of government, crafting objectives and content for presentations that best meet the needs of a specific agency or department. Seminars and workshops incorporate issues that arise under the Code of Ethics in both the advisory opinion and complaint contexts. The educational sessions are provided in an interactive presentation format and vary in duration, depending on the needs and goals of the agency or department. Commission publications are provided during these presentations and are also available at the Commission offices and on its website.

The seminar program is designed to be easily tailored to the unique governmental roles and responsibilities of its participants. Each class is built around a core curriculum. In addition, the governing statutes, policies, and procedures of the sponsoring agency and the job descriptions, powers, and duties of the participants are taken into account so as to focus the discussion on the most relevant sections of the Code of Ethics. The Education Coordinator attempts to enrich the program with real-world examples of Code applications. Whenever possible, seminars are provided at the worksites or meeting places of the participants. Most programs are provided at no cost to the sponsoring agency, although occasionally agencies are asked to assist the Ethics Commission with the costs of duplicating handouts used in the program.

EDUCATIONAL WORKSHOPS PROVIDED IN FY2015

In FY2015, the staff provided thirty-seven (37) workshops, seminars and presentations to over twelve hundred (1,200) individuals across the state. Among the municipal entities receiving training were the Towns of Bristol, Charlestown, Cumberland, Middletown, and Westerly, as well as the City of Providence Police Department and the Chariho School Committee. Training was also provided to various departments of state government, including: the Department of Labor & Training Board members; the Office of the Governor-Elect; the Office of the Secretary of State-Elect; the Department of Transportation engineers; the Office of the General Treasurer; the Division of Purchases, at the Department of Administration; the Division of Elderly Affairs; Healthsource RI; the Council on the Arts; the Office of the Attorney General; the State Retirement Board; and the Providence Water Authority.

The Commission's Education Coordinator participated in a panel discussion at the Rhode Island Bar Association's Annual Meeting, and provided ethics training for the Rhode Island Association of School Committees and the Rhode Island Association of School Business Officials.

EDUCATIONAL PUBLICATIONS

As part of its educational mission, in FY2015 the Commission made several informative publications available to the public. These publications assist the public, as well as those subject to the Code of Ethics, in their efforts to understand and abide by the provisions of the Code. Subjects covered in these publications include information on the content of the Code of Ethics itself and the application of the Code to specific groups of public officials and employees, financial disclosure requirements, as well as information on the complaint, investigation, and enforcement process.

TELEPHONE AND WALK-IN INQUIRIES

In FY2015, the Commission continued its efforts in responding to telephone inquiries from government officials, public employees, and the public at large. Each business day, a Commission staff attorney or investigator is assigned as the public contact to respond to numerous phone calls, emails and walk-in visitors in need of information or guidance. While not offering legal advice, the staff provides information, copies of past advisory opinions, and educational publications. Although many of the calls involved questions about advisory opinions or complaints, other matters included questions about financial disclosure, recusal, whether a particular matter fell within the Commission's jurisdiction, gifts, dual public roles, revolving door, recusal, private employment, nepotism, and other requests for information.

IV. FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

The Ethics Commission is empowered by the Rhode Island Constitution to adopt provisions of the Code of Ethics governing financial disclosure by public officials. The purpose of requiring financial disclosure is to help ensure that those public officials and employees are acting in the public interest do not use their public positions to further their private financial interests. The financial disclosure statement also provides evidence that there are no conflicts between an official's financial interests and his or her public duties. All financial disclosure statements are public records.

By statute, financial disclosure to the Ethics Commission is required of: (a) all state and municipal elected officials; (b) candidates for state or municipal elective office; (c) most state and municipal appointed officials; and (d) some state employees who serve in major decision-making positions.

Financial disclosure statements are filed annually. Officials are required to disclose major assets and sources of occupational income, including those of a spouse and any dependent children. Officials must also disclose whether they, their spouses, or any dependent children, hold an interest in any business regulated by the Rhode Island government or in any enterprise which engages in business transactions with the government. Additionally, officials must disclose the name and address of any person, business, or organization which is owed more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) by the official, a spouse, or a dependent child.

Most officials are not required to disclose the dollar amount or value of any income, asset, or debt. However, the five General Officers (Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State, and Treasurer) and any candidates for a general office must disclose both the source and amount of any income, occupational or otherwise, that is greater than two hundred dollars ($200).

FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE PROCESS

In FY2015, Commission staff processed the filing of calendar year 2014 financial disclosure statements for approximately forty-one hundred (4,100) officials. Databases are used to create and maintain lists of officials subject to financial disclosure requirements. Commission staff continuously update these databases when people declare as candidates, elections are held, appointments are made, terms end, officials resign, new positions are created, and former agencies and commissions are disbanded. Accordingly, the statistics relative to the 2014 financial disclosure filings continue to change even after the close of the fiscal year.

Public officials and employees who are required to file financial disclosure statements are identified by the city and town clerks, fire districts, and leaders of state departments and agencies. Lists containing the names of such filers are transmitted to Commission staff. Thereafter, financial disclosure forms and instructions are mailed to required filers in March of each year. Financial disclosure forms and instructions are also mailed throughout the year to newly installed officials and employees upon receipt by the Commission of official written notice of their election, appointment or hiring.

Financial disclosure statements for each calendar year must be filed by incumbent filers no later than the last Friday in April of the following year. For example, the 2014 financial disclosure statement was due to be filed by the last Friday of April 2015. Some filers request and are granted a sixty (60) day extension for filing, extending the due date until late June.

The Commission staff dedicates significant attention and resources to encouraging compliance with the financial disclosure requirement. Although not required by statute or regulation, the Commission's Executive Director has developed and implemented a series of procedures referred to as "Operation Compliance," which are aimed at improving the financial disclosure compliance rate. Pursuant to Operation Compliance, which extends beyond the end of each fiscal year, public officials who have not filed by the April deadline, or by the June extension if applicable, are mailed a reminder letter that contains a clear warning that non-filing may result in a formal complaint and the imposition of a civil penalty of up to $25,000. This letter generally provides a short amnesty period during which no complaint will be initiated by Commission staff if the required filing is made.

Another Operation Compliance procedure involves the Commission staff personally contacting Rhode Island city and town solicitors, clerks and state officials to provide them with lists of non-filers in their municipalities or departments. The Commission staff requests that these non-filers be contacted by their own staff and encouraged to comply with the filing requirement, in an effort to further reduce the need to initiate prosecutions or impose monetary penalties.

The final phase of Operation Compliance involves the initiation of the complaint process. Officials who still have not complied at this point are subject to having complaints filed against them. Each year, the Commission staff initiates non-filing complaints against elected officials who have failed to file, and depending upon Commission resources, against appointed officials. Care is taken to ensure fairness in the complaint process so that, for instance, complaints are always filed against all non-filers in the same category (e.g. Town Council or School Committee members) throughout the state, rather than only against those members in selected communities.

These policies and procedures, including Operation Compliance, are repeated in each successive filing year. It is the goal of the Commission to improve financial disclosure compliance each year in an effort to achieve a rate of 100% compliance.

COMPLIANCE IN FILING THE 2014 FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

Calendar year 2014 financial disclosure statements for incumbent officials and employees were required to be filed by April 24, 2015. By the filing deadline, 76% of required filers had complied.

Thereafter, the Commission staff initiated the Operation Compliance procedures which included the mailing of reminder letters, making contact with clerks, solicitors, and others to request assistance in locating non-filers, and finally, the initiation of complaints and imposition of civil penalties. This process to improve compliance by those required to file 2014 financial disclosure statements, which included the initiation of complaints, extended beyond the close of FY2015 on June 30, 2015. The ultimate compliance rate for the 2014 financial disclosure statement was 98%.

V. INVESTIGATIONS AND ENFORCEMENT

THE COMPLAINT PROCESS

The Ethics Commission is constitutionally and statutorily empowered to enforce the Code of Ethics. R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8; R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 36-14-12 to -14. The Commission's enforcement powers include the authority to accept or initiate complaints alleging Code violations, investigate and adjudicate those complaints, and impose civil penalties.

Filing a Complaint

Prior to filing a complaint, potential complainants are encouraged to contact the Commission by telephone to speak with a member of the Investigative staff during Commission business hours. Those contemplating filing a complaint may also arrange to come in during office hours to discuss with Investigative staff the procedure, the substance of a potential complaint, or any other questions they might have before actually filing a complaint. While those considering filing a complaint are encouraged to contact Commission staff first, it is not mandatory to do so prior to the actual filing of a complaint. Complaints must be filed on a proper complaint form, allege conduct that is prohibited by the Code of Ethics, and be signed and notarized.

Within three (3) working days of receiving a complaint, the Executive Director will either accept it for filing or reject it based on jurisdictional, statutory or regulatory defects. In the event that a complaint is accepted for filing, the Commission mails copies of the complaint, the Code of Ethics, and Commission Regulations to the complainant and to the respondent. The Commission thereafter sends timely notices of subsequent Commission actions to the complainant and respondent as required by the Code. All complaints are public records after being accepted for filing.

Limitations Period on Filing of Complaint

"Any Complaint shall be filed with the Ethics Commission no later than six (6) years from the date of the alleged violation of the Rhode Island Code of Ethics." Regulation 1001.1.

Initial Determination

At this first stage of review, the Commission determines whether the complaint properly alleges facts sufficient to constitute a violation of the law. Meeting during a closed executive session, the Commission either decides to dismiss the complaint or to initiate an investigation. The decision to investigate does not address the validity of the complaint; rather, it merely indicates that the allegations properly fall under the provisions of the Code of Ethics. Neither the complainant nor the respondent participates in the Initial Determination.

Informal Resolution & Settlement

At any time subsequent to the Initial Determination of a complaint, the Prosecution and the respondent may seek an informal disposition through an agreed-upon settlement, consent order, or other informal resolution of the pending complaint. This may entail an informal conference between the parties in an effort to reach an agreeable disposition. The information learned during an informal conference shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent proceeding. Any informal disposition of a pending complaint shall be subject to the approval of the Commission during a closed executive session. Once approved by the Commission, the Informal Resolution & Settlement Agreement and any Orders issued regarding the complaint become public documents.

Investigation

The investigation may involve the gathering of documentary evidence as well as oral and written statements taken under oath or affirmation. The Commission may also issue subpoenas to compel the production of evidence or the sworn testimony of witnesses. The time for investigation is limited to 180 days after the complaint is filed, unless the Commission approves an extension for good cause, with a maximum of two such 60-day extensions. All pleadings and orders relating to the investigative phase become public after a probable cause hearing.

Probable Cause Hearing

The purpose of a probable cause hearing is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support that a violation of the Code has or is being committed. An Investigative Report is prepared by the staff prior to a probable cause hearing. The respondent is mailed a copy of the Investigative Report at least 14 days prior to a scheduled hearing. The probable cause hearing is held during a closed executive session, but the respondent and/or the respondent's counsel may be present. At the hearing, the Prosecution presents the results of the investigation. The Commission reviews the Investigative Report of the Prosecution as well as any response or other written information submitted by the respondent. The Commission may then vote to dismiss the complaint for lack of evidence, find that probable cause exists to support the allegations, and/or amend the complaint if the investigation reveals probable cause exists to believe that other violations of the Code of Ethics have occurred. The Investigative Report becomes a public record after the completion of a probable cause hearing. All pleadings and Commission orders filed after a probable cause hearing are immediately public.

Adjudicative Hearing

If the Commission finds that probable cause exists to support the allegations, an adjudicative hearing is scheduled, providing at least 15 days prior notice to the respondent. This is an adversarial hearing. The Prosecutor and the respondent may present evidence and examine witnesses. Additionally, Commissioners may also question witnesses. Rules of evidence are followed, regulations provide for discovery, and principles of due process govern all procedures. The Prosecutor must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the respondent committed a knowing and willful violation of the Code. A stenographic record is kept, and the hearing is conducted during an open and public session.

Final Disposition

Following adjudicative matters, the Commission may meet in closed session, whenever deliberations are in order, to deliberate and determine whether there has been a knowing and willful violation of the Code of Ethics. Upon a finding of a violation, the Commission may: (a) issue a cease and desist order; (b) require the respondent to file any statement mandated by the Ethics Code; (c) impose a civil fine of up to $25,000 per violation and the return of any unjust enrichment; and/or (d) for more egregious violations, remove from office any official not subject to impeachment.

Judicial Review

All final orders of the Commission are subject to review by the Rhode Island Superior and Supreme Courts pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act. R.I. Gen. Laws § 36-14-15 and Commission Regulation 1022.

Whistleblower Protection

Complainants and witnesses have rights under the Rhode Island Whistleblower Act (R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 28-50-1 to -9) and may also bring a civil action in Superior Court within three years after being threatened or intimidated in any proceeding before the Ethics Commission.

Frivolous Complaints

The Code of Ethics provides that “no person shall knowingly and willfully make a false or frivolous complaint under this chapter.” R.I. Gen. Laws § 36-14-5(k).

PENDING COMPLAINTS AND ENFORCEMENT ACTIONS

The Commission prosecutes two types of complaints: conflict of interest complaints for alleged substantive violations of the Code of Ethics, and non-filing complaints for the failure to timely file financial disclosure statements.

Conflict of Interest Complaints

As FY2015 began, there were 2 outstanding conflict of interest complaints pending before the Ethics Commission. During FY2015, 23 conflict of interest complaints were filed. The Commission issued final orders in 20 cases during FY2015:

- 12 cases settled and civil penalties totaling $8,650 were imposed, all of which were collected.
- 8 cases were dismissed at various stages of the investigation.

At the close of FY2015, 5 conflict of interest complaints were pending.

Non-Filing Complaints

At the start of FY2015, there were no outstanding non-filing complaints. During FY2015, 5 non-filing complaints were filed for the failure to timely file calendar year 2013 financial disclosure statements. The Commission issued final orders in all 5 cases during FY2015:

- 3 cases were settled, which included the payment of a $500 civil penalty in each case, all of which was collected (totaling $1,500); and
- 2 cases proceeded to adjudication, resulting in a finding of violation and the imposition of a $1,500 civil penalty in each case. To date, no money has been collected in either case.

At the close of FY2015, there were no outstanding non-filing complaints.

COLLECTION OF OUTSTANDING CIVIL PENALTIES

Civil penalties imposed by the Ethics Commission are paid to the state's general fund. Most respondents pay the civil penalty imposed by the Commission shortly after the penalty is imposed. If payment in full cannot be made immediately, the Commission will frequently enter into payment agreements with a respondent to collect the outstanding balance over time. If such an agreement cannot be reached, the Executive Director forwards outstanding balances to Rossi Law Offices, Ltd., Debt Collection Division, to which the Ethics Commission pays a fee of up to 20% for amounts collected.

In FY2015, the Executive Director entered into a memorandum of understanding with the Rhode Island Division of Taxation for collection of outstanding civil penalties through the Rhode Island Division of Taxation Income Tax Refund Offset Program (R.I. Gen. Laws § 42-142-7). If a debtor is owed a state tax refund, their refund will be offset up to the amount owed to the Ethics Commission. This service is provided by the Division of Taxation at no cost to the Ethics Commission.

In FY2015, the following amounts were collected towards outstanding balances:

- Payments directly from Respondents totaling $1,300.
- Collections by Rossi Law Offices totaling $3,053.86.
- Division of Taxation Income Tax Refund Offset totaling $236.36.

PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATIONS

Preliminary investigations may be initiated upon a determination by the Executive Director that information provided to or in the possession of the Commission and/or Commission staff establishes a reasonable basis to believe that a state or municipal official or employee has violated the Code. Commission Regulation 36-14-12001. The Executive Director is required to notify the Commission whenever such an investigation is initiated. All materials relating to the investigation shall remain confidential, except that access may be granted to any federal, state, or municipal law enforcement agency, or disclosed in a complaint, or after a finding of probable cause, in accordance with R.I. Gen. Laws § 36-14-12(c)(4). Following the Preliminary Investigation, the Executive Director may choose to file a formal complaint beginning an enforcement action.

There were no Preliminary Investigations in FY2015.

VI. TECHNOLOGICAL ADVANCES

THE ONLINE FILING INITIATIVE

In FY2011, the Ethics Commission and the Rhode Island Department of Administration entered into a contract with Rhode Island Interactive, LLC (“RI.gov”) for the development, hosting and maintenance of an online filing system for financial disclosure. Development continued into FY2012 for a roll-out on March 30, 2012, when the system began accepting the filing of calendar year 2011 financial disclosure statements.

RI.gov is paid on a per filing basis at a rate of $2.50 per filing for the 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015 statements. Beginning with the 2016 financial disclosure statements, the rate will drop to $0.50 per filing. As part of the initial contract, the Department of Administration agreed to pay all costs associated with the first year of filing the 2011 forms. During FY2015, approximately 2,670 calendar year 2014 financial statements were filed on-line, which cost the Commission approximately $6,675.

ONLINE FILING PROCESS AND PROCEDURES

The Commission generates a unique PIN number and Person ID number, which are distributed along with online filing instructions in a letter that accompanies the hard copy form and instructions mailed to each filer in March of each year. Filers access the online filing system through the Commission’s website. Once logged in, filers can begin answering questions and log out at any time, and any answers that have been inputted will be saved for later filing. The online statement cannot be submitted until all questions have been answered. At submission, the filer is asked to provide an email address so that a confirmation and a PDF copy of the form can be sent. Email addresses do not appear on the printed form.

PHASE II OF ONLINE FILING

After the successful launch of the online filing system during FY2012, the Commission worked with its partners to develop and implement Phase II of the online filing project. This involved adding functionality to the system to allow for the filing of multiple years’ forms and for the migration of the content entered on the 2011 form to the filer’s 2012 form. This migration of information was intended to help filings maintain consistency year to year and to increase the ease and speed of filing.

Phase II also created the ability for filers to amend their previous online filings at any time by logging into the online filing system. Amendments can only ADD TO a previously filed form; no submitted answers may ever be deleted. All amendments carry their own date/time stamps. Amended forms are processed in the same way as original forms, and the amended form replaces the original in the database. There is no additional cost to the Commission for amendments pursuant to the contract with RI.gov.

ONLINE FILING STATISTICS

	2011 Financial Disclosure Statement	2012 Financial Disclosure Statement	2013 Financial Disclosure Statement	2014 Financial Disclosure Statement
Total Number of Statements filed to date	3,994	3,880	4,083	4,197
Number of Statements filed online	2,279	2,571	2,785	3,116
Percentage of Statements filed online	57%	66%	68%	74%

GOALS FOR FY2016 AND BEYOND

With greater acceptance and use of the online filing system by required filers, the Commission will have access to filer information in a digital form that can be more easily filtered and analyzed. One of the original goals of moving to an online filing system was to allow for such use of this data. The Commission has been working closely with the Department of Administration’s Division of Information Technology (“DoIT”) to develop an “Ethics Commission Reporting System” interface with the online filing database. This reporting system went live in the second half of FY2014. At the close of FY2015, updates and enhancements were still being made to the database’s reporting system.

VII. PUBLIC RECORDS

The Rhode Island Ethics Commission is a public agency, subject to the requirements of the Access to Public Records Act (“APRA”). R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 38-2-1 to -15. All persons are welcome to inspect public records during regular business hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on state holidays.

Copies of public records may be obtained in person, requested via email at ethics.email@ethics.ri.gov, by fax at (401) 222-3382, by calling the Commission at (401) 222-3790 (voice/TT), or via Rhode Island Relay, a telecommunications service for persons with hearing or speech disabilities, at 711. A fee of $0.15 per page may be charged for copies; however, many records may be provided free of charge via email.

PUBLIC RECORDS REQUEST GUIDELINES & PROCEDURES

The Commission’s Public Records Request Guidelines and an accompanying Public Records Request Form can both be found on the Commission’s website and at the Commission’s office.

Most public records requests result from a phone call or email communication with a Commission staff member. A written request is not required to inspect Commission public records. However, a person may be asked to submit a written request where it involves: search and retrieval; multiple categories of records; voluminous documents; redaction; documents in storage; or other such circumstance. A copy of the Commission’s Public Records Request Form may be completed or a request may otherwise be submitted in writing. APRA allows a public body ten (10) business days to respond, which can be extended an additional twenty (20) business days for “good cause.”

Commission staff members are trained in APRA procedures and work together to promptly respond to requests for public records. Public records requests are primarily completed by administrative staff, but investigators and staff attorneys will also complete requests. Staff attorneys assist all other staff members in complying with the statutory requirements of APRA.

IX. STATUTORY, REGULATORY AND POLICY CHANGES

INTRODUCTION

The Rhode Island Constitution empowers the Commission to “adopt a code of ethics.” R.I. Const. art. III, sec. 8. Statutory provisions authorize the Commission to prescribe and publish, after notice and public hearings, rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 36-14-1 to -21. The Commission’s authority to enact a code of ethics is concurrent with that of the General Assembly. Accordingly, changes in the Code may come from either body.

CURRENT VERSION OF CODE OF ETHICS

Copies of the Code of Ethics, which is comprised of both state statutes and Commission regulations, are available at the Commission offices. New copies of the Code are printed after there has been a statutory or regulatory change. Additionally, the most recent version of the Code of Ethics is available on the Commission’s website.

CHANGES TO THE CODE OF ETHICS IN FY2015

The Commission did not adopt any new regulations or amend any existing regulations in FY2015.

The General Assembly did not enact any additional public laws amending or revising the Code of Ethics in FY2015.

GENERAL COMMISSION ADVISORY OPINIONS IN FY2015

General Commission Advisory (“GCA”) Opinions are intended to provide the public with a general overview of the Commission’s interpretation of specific subject areas with examples and a list of previously issued relevant advisory opinions. The GCAs issued from 2009 to the present are available on the Commission’s website or by contacting the Commission directly and making an APRA request. The Commission did not adopt any GCAs in FY2015.

X. LITIGATION

All final orders of the Ethics Commission in contested cases may be appealed to the Rhode Island Superior Court, pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, R.I. Gen. Laws § 42-35-15. Parties may also petition the Rhode Island Supreme Court for review. The Commission may initiate District Court actions to collect unpaid fines and may initiate Superior Court actions where judicial intervention is necessary to enforce the orders of the Ethics Commission.

LITIGATION IN FY2015

During FY2015, litigation related to Joseph S. Larisa, Jr. v. R.I. Ethics Commission, C.A. P.C. 2011-6938, was resolved. The Respondent in the matter of In re: Joseph S. Larisa, Jr., Complaint No. 2010-12, originally filed an administrative appeal in FY2012 in Superior Court seeking judicial review of an Ethics Commission Decision & Order, which found that the Respondent committed a knowing and willful violation of R.I. Gen. Laws § 36-14-5(e)(2). The Commission imposed a civil penalty of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) for said violation. On September 3, 2014, the Superior Court issued an order reversing the Ethics Commission decision. The Ethics Commission did not appeal the Superior Court's decision.

XI. DECLARATORY RULINGS

The Ethics Commission, under Commission Regulation 36-14-1025, accepts petitions from any interested person seeking a “declaratory ruling” clarifying the applicability of the Code of Ethics. Such rulings have the same status as Commission orders in contested cases and may be challenged in Superior Court.

All declaratory rulings are public records. Declaratory rulings are issued in open session following a public hearing. Notices of all hearings and open meetings are posted and the public may attend.

The Commission received no requests for declaratory rulings in FY2015.
